Volunteers Across Canada – Thank You!

Canada is known as a giving and caring nation. This is due in large part to the effort invested by volunteers. Recent statistics show that, across Canada, more than 12.7 million volunteers dedicate their time, skills and energy to the greater good of our society.

At the launch of National Volunteer Week 2019, Volunteer Canada stated: “As we recognize the collective efforts of volunteers, we reflect on the multitude of actions taken locally to help people, communities and neighbourhoods become better prepared to respond to the unexpected, and better positioned for a more sustainable future.”

National Volunteer Week is an opportunity to pay tribute and thank all the volunteers who make a difference in our lives and communities every day.

On behalf of the National Executive Committee and the Board of Governors, I offer a heartfelt thank you to all League members and volunteers who selflessly give precious time and effort to support the Air Cadet program at every level: local, provincial/territorial and national. It is through your generous involvement that the Air Cadets are Canada's premier youth development program. Your diligent work at the various levels of the organization demonstrates our combined commitment and dedication to the League and to the more than 27,000 Air Cadets across the country.
