Royal Canadian Legion Air Cadet Award 2021

"Whatever we do, it must be done safely and with safety in mind"

The Air Cadet League office is wishing you a safe and healthy Holiday Season!

Office will be closed between December 18 & January 2

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Season's Greetings!

Just when we thought 2020 was interesting enough, 2021 has continued to test our resilience and determination to support squadrons and cadets across the country. My "hats off" to the Provincial/Territorial Committees, SSCs and ACL volunteers and supporters that have continued to work hard to overcome the challenges and continue to aim higher. Many have taken the time to work on and refresh their policies, procedures, and training, and to take on new initiatives. I have no doubt we will emerge better and stronger in 2022.

One of our key events for the year, the National Effective Speaking Competition, went virtual and showed how well organizers at all levels and the cadets were able to prevail and deliver excellence! And what great skills these participants will take into their future careers. Looking forward to the 2022 Competition and the interesting topics in the lineup.

As we continue to prepare for more in person, based on local/regional situations, we must do so considering the safety and health protocols needed. The Risk Management Committee and members across the country have been working to anticipate the potential challenges and how to mitigate. Whatever we do, it must be done safely and with safety in mind.

Thank you to our over 8,000 volunteers for what you have done and continue to do to support the cadets and this program. I would also like to recognize the efforts of our National Office Staff – they continue to keep us "on the runway" and functioning without missing a beat!

So with that, let's call it a "wrap" on 2021!

Warmest wishes to you and yours for a safe and happy holiday season!

All the best,

Hille Viita, CD National President

ABOUT THE EFFECTIVE SPEAKING COMPETITION

The National Public Speaking Team is back again this year despite the health restrictions that have been placed on participants in the Cadet Program.

The 2022 themes have already been posted on the Air Cadet League of Canada website.

This year we will again be holding public speaking competitions at all levels. The format of the public speaking competitions is at the discretion of the local, regional and provincial/territorial organizers, in other words, they choose the competition format that suits the National Public Speaking Guide. Competitions may be face-to-face or virtual. The public speaking competition must comply with the health restrictions of the territory and also the rules issued by the CAF.

We have obtained documentation on public speaking that has been prepared by our partner, the Canadian Armed Forces (CAF). This material will be made available to squadrons who wish to use it. This material can be used as a guide for cadets and adults in preparation for the competition.

The year 2020-2021 has also been marked by virtual training and virtual public speaking competitions. A few members of the national team are working to verify the compatibility of MS Teams as a public speaking competition tool. Details will follow soon. MS Teams is available free of charge to all Air Cadet League members who have an appropriate email address. MS Teams could be a substitute for Zoom for local, regional and provincial competitions. The National Public Speaking Competition will be held on Zoom.

The Public Speaking Finals will be held at 11:00 a.m. Eastern Time (Montreal) on Saturday, June 4, 2022 in virtual mode on Zoom.

This year also marks the arrival of a new version of the public speaking entry form, ACC54, which has been revamped and made completely computerized. The cadet begins to enter data and the process is completed step by step. It will be necessary to ensure that the form is completed or signed at all levels.

RISK MANAGEMENT

Risks Don't Go Away

- Even if you have mitigated, avoided, transferred, or accepted risk
- Risks are always present, just less likely, or somewhere else
- Review them regularly, at least annually
- What has changed, what can happen, what is the effect, what are the options, what are next steps

Don't Underestimate Your Risks

- Even if you are small, you are still a target
- Ensure you measure your risks effectively and accurately
- Don't think "unlikely events" will not happen
- Be realistic
- Plan for failure, these risks are real and not just reference points.

Ron Ilko National Chair, Risk Management Committee

HOW DO YOU CELEBRATE WHEN YOU'RE AT WEEK 70-SOMETHING OF A GLOBAL PANDEMIC?

Well in St. Anthony, Newfoundland, 774 RCACS, a small squadron with approximately 40 cadets welcomed the opportunity to have some fun while promoting the program they love so much.

"We have been very fortunate to have the support of our newly formed town council," explains commanding officer Captain Krista Diamond. "The entire new council are former air and sea cadets."

The week began with Mayor Bradley Johannessen signing a proclamation declaring Cadet Week in St. Anthony followed by the raising of the Cadets Canada flag in front of town hall.

"We've been pretty much out of the public eye since the first lockdown," explains Captain Diamond

"Our squadron is celebrating our 54th anniversary this year and despite limitations to our public exposure, we wanted to remind our community that we are still very much here, keeping the youth engaged. So, we planned activities that everyone could do while following the public health measures to keep everyone safe."

With this in mind, a series of "spirit" days were planned as well as a community daily scavenger hunt.

Utilizing Facebook and the Town of St. Anthony's website, daily clues were released, and people had to find the hidden squadron badge.

Points were tallied - one for wearing the daily spirit colour, one for submitting your scavenger hunt picture – and prizes were awarded to the top three-point earners.

As this year Cadet Week coincided with Newfoundland and Labrador Forestry week the squadron incorporated their tree planting initiative and set out to plant 774 seedlings in a popular walking trail area of town. A fall FTX also took place during Cadet Week with environmental stewardship as the focus for training.

"Celebrating our environment and our youth in one week was a wonderful experience that 774 looks forward to celebrating again next year," offers Diamond. "Hopefully in a covid-19 free world."

REFLECTIONS ON MY EXPERIENCES WITH THE AIR CADET PROGRAM

1945-04 Erving Oscar Hardy Air Cadet

As a young man growing up in rural Prince Edward Island in the early 1940s, my interest in aviation and the military was sparked by wartime training I witnessed. Pilots of single-engine Harvards were practicing aerobatics right over my family's farm fields. I used to lie down on the coils of hay and be mesmerized by the ongoing show in the sky above me, while also listening to very realisticsounding gunnery practice nearby.

1979 BGen Erving Hardy Headshot

In 1945, when I was sixteen years old, I moved to Summerside, PEI to complete my Junior Matriculation (Grade 11) to qualify for a place at Mount Allison University. While there, I decided that I would join the Air Cadets - Squadron 53. The uniform was appealing, and I felt pretty good in it as it looked a lot like what Regular Forces airmen wore. It was very useful for hitchhiking purposes and on the rare occasion when I wore it to a dance, I felt like I stood out a bit, in a good way, as none of my friends were Air Cadets.

The Air Cadet programming took place primarily on Saturdays, when we would be bused to CFB Summerside for lectures, Phys Ed exercises and familiarization flying - often in an Avro Anson Mk II. As part of our Saturday sessions, we got to enjoy a meal in the airmen's mess. I enjoyed the camaraderie of eating together and it added another element of the realities of military life to the cadet experience. I believe that being an Air Cadet was fundamental to consolidating my interest in becoming a member of the regular force.

Upon graduation from Mount Allison University, I began teaching at Lockeport Regional High School in Nova Scotia. I was asked to provide assistance to support the Air Cadet Squadron there which was in danger of closing so I enlisted in the RCAF Primary Reserves as a Pilot Officer. The following year, I joined the summer Air Cadet Camp staff at CFB Greenwood and not long after, I decided to shift my career path and join the Regular Force.

When applying, my Air Cadet experience was helpful, particularly as there was not a lot of recruiting occurring in the branch I was interested in (supply/logistics). My transition to full-time military life went well, thanks to the prior training I had received, my familiarity with wearing a uniform and the management experience accumulated running drill parades at the cadets' summer camp.

I feel that having been an Air Cadet helped me to launch into the world in a larger way than I otherwise might have done. I enjoyed a thirty-year career in the Canadian Armed Forces, progressing through the ranks in the Supply (Logistics) Branch to become a Brigadier General. And to think it all began with me daydreaming on top of a pile of hay!

A FORMER CALGARY AIR CADET WILL BE FLYING VIRGIN GALACTIC TOURISTS TO SPACE

November 8, 2021 an interesting article written by Aaron Hutchins featuring Jameel Janjua, a former Calgary Air Cadet, was published in Macleans.

"He was, he says, the kid who had a poster of Canadian astronaut Chris Hadfield on his bedroom wall and had identified his dream career path by the time he was an air cadet in Calgary: "I was going to be a fighter pilot, a test pilot and an astronaut." When the CSA opened recruitment in 2009 for two astronaut positions, Janjua was one of 5,351 applicants, ticking all the boxes. He'd finished his undergraduate degree at Royal Military College in chemical and materials engineering, winning a medal as the top graduate. He had a master's in aeronautics and astronautics from M.I.T. He was serving as a fighter pilot with the Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF)."

GEORGE EVANS SOARS AGAIN

Recently, the first museum exhibit, a Schwizer SGU 2-22 coded CF-ACL glider, was suspended from the ceiling of the newly constructed Royal Aviation Museum of Western Canada. Prominently displayed was the name on its starboard cockpit, "dedicated to George Evans".

The fitting memorial recognized the life and times of "perennial" Air Cadet George Maurice Evans (1927–2020). George was born and raised in Brandon, Manitoba. In his youth, he was a highly sought-after hockey goalie, often called up to play in more senior leagues, although his first love was not sports.

After a brief stint in Army Cadets, he joined No. 82 Air Cadet Squadron in 1942 where he first learned to fly a glider in 1945. He first flew a de Havilland Tiger Moth in 1946, the same year he met his wife Shirley. They married in 1949 and had their first child in Brandon where their first family house was built. He continued with the Brandon squadron as an instructor until he left Brandon in 1956 to pursue a career in Air Traffic Control. That career took him to Winnipeg, Fort William, and back to Winnipeg in 1957 where he remained for the rest of his life. His two youngest children were born in Winnipeg in 1959 and 1961.

While in Fort William he was an instructor with No. 66 Fort William Air Cadet Squadron. When he came back to Winnipeg in 1957, he joined No. 573 Legion 141 Squadron. In 1958 he was called upon to help spearhead the reactivation of No. 191 West Winnipeg Rotary Squadron where he rose to Commanding Officer from 1980 until he retired in 1986 when he joined the Manitoba Provincial Committee of the Air Cadet League. George was promoted to Major in 1985 and was awarded the CD and Bar. George spent several summers as a flight instructor with the Air Cadet Gliding Program in Penhold, Alberta as well with the Manitoba Gliding Program at CFB Portage and other airports in Brandon, Neepawa, Dauphin, Rivers and Manitou for many years. It was his passion for Air Cadets that helped set the stage for the future gliding program. Under his initiative, CF-ACL, the first of the Schwizer SGU 2-22 gliders was later preserved and donated to the collection of the then Western Canada Aviation Museum.

George was awarded the Air Cadet League of Canada (Manitoba) Distinguished Service Award in 2009 and an Air Cadet League of Canada Presidential Citation in 2010 for his lifetime of service to Air Cadets.

In retirement, George noted his hobbies included flying, gliding, golfing and curling (with a hole-in-one to his credit at the age of 80). He was also active in the St. James Legion, Shrine (Vintage Cars), the Masonic Lodge, the Royal Aviation Museum of Western Canada and the Manitoba Soaring Council made up of representatives of the Winnipeg Gliding Club and the Air Cadets flying program.

When visitors to the new aviation museum will look up at the glider hanging from the ceiling, they will also see the name of one of the former Air Cadets that helped make it happen and know George Evans soars once again.
